Yeager Middle Student Wins for County in Water Essay Contest

Nathan Jones, a student at Yeager Middle School, is the Douglas County winner in the fourth annual water conservation and preservation essay contest, sponsored by the Clean Water Campaign and the Water Use It Wisely Campaign. Jones, a 7th grader, received a $25 cash prize. Jones was presented with his award on Tuesday, November 29 by Douglas County Commission Chairman Tom Worthan.

The two organizations, Clean Water Campaign and Water Use It Wisely, teamed up to encourage children and parents to address the growing need to improve water quality and conservation efforts in Georgia. Students researched and shared their thoughts on why conserving water and preventing water pollution are important for the future of their river, lakes and streams. The main goal of this program is to encourage students to create inventive solutions to water conservation and water quality in metro North Georgia.

In Jones's essay, he said, "With very little water, our lives would be drastically different." He concludes his essay with, "Each person has the ability to make a difference in at least a small part of the world, and if we all work together, we will never have to worry about this most important resource."

The contest was open to sixth, seventh and eighth graders in Bartow, Cherokee, Clayton, Cobb, Coweta, DeKalb, Douglas, Fayette, Fulton, Forsyth, Gwinnett, Hall, Henry, Paulding, Rockdale and Walton Counties. More than 1,000 middle school students from throughout the district participated. Each participating school submitted its winning essay for the county competition, and one overall winner was selected from among the county winners. County winners receive a Clean Water Campaign / Water Use It Wisely certificate presented by an elected official from that county.
